A Positive Remedy That Takes Away Superfluous Hairy Growths Without Burning the Skin

No woman with a mustache, or indeed with any superfluous hair disfiguring either her face, arms or bust, need suffer such mortification any longer. To relieve all such unhappy women 50,000 bottles of the wonderful remedy Electro-tro-la will be given away absolutely free to women constantly miserable because of such unnatural, unsightly growths.

No Need Now For Hair On The Face—
A Cure With Electro-tro-la Is a Cure That Lasts

No matter how heavy or light the growth, it can be destroyed in a few minutes, with Electro-tro-la. With perfect safety, it can be used on the face, neck, arms, bust or any portion of the body. There is no other remedy like it. It positively will not irritate, burn or scar the most tender skin. No matter how long it is left on, and never fails to remove even the most obstinate growth almost instantly. You who have tried so-called cures without success can gain permanent lasting effect with Electro-tro-la—not merely temporary relief—for once it destroys the hair roots the growth can never return.

To prove what we say we have decided to give a trial bottle free to every one of 50,000 men or women who write for it, enclosing a two-cent stamp to cover mailing. Electro-tro-la regularly costs $1.00 a bottle but we will let 50,000 people find out what it will do without any charge. Just fill out the coupon below and mail today.

FREE TREATMENT

Fill in your name and address on dotted lines and send it to K. O. Rec-Tiv Co., 5061 State St., Chicago, enclosing two-cent stamp to help cover mailing, and we will send you at once a free trial bottle of Electro-tro-la.

REDDING'S LAND PROJECT

Committee Named to Make Canvass of the Town.

Redding, Jan. 21.—The committee authorized by the last meeting of land owners to further the Tomlinson land project already described in the Farmer has been completed and is composed of the following citizens: A. G. Barnett, James L. Blackman, W. C. Sanford, H. S. Osborn, Stephen Sanford, P. M. Brotherton, Louis C. Runsey and Arthur J. Todd. Each of these empowered to appoint an assistant and the entire committee are expected to make a canvass of the town for the purpose of securing land allotments, under the scheme or more strictly to ascertain who are willing to enter into the arrangement and to what extent. No contracts can of course be executed until a chief contractor comes forward to assume the financial and other responsibilities involved in the undertaking. Although the canvass has as yet hardly begun there are already promises, mostly without solicitation, between one and two thousand acres. This the friends of the enterprise regard as a very encouraging start. The tax abstract gives the town's total acreage as nearly 19,000 acres. Therefore there is required under the general provisions of the plan between nine and ten thousand acres.

Naturally the project continues to be the leading topic of local conversation. There are the inevitable croakers who decry the plan generally and others who criticize it specifically. Some of the latter persist in misunderstanding the terms of the contract or in reading into it meanings which it does not contain. Still others, while admitting the fairness of the proposition submitted to the landowners and also admitting its prospective practical benefits through increased prices for the land, have to be declared that they intend to stay out because the outsider will also profit by the enhanced prices and at the same time be free from restrictions. They admit that this is a selfish view to take but say that it is therefore a strictly business view. They should bear in mind, however, that if a majority of their fellow townsmen regard the matter in the same light the project will never get under way and that there will be no lift in prices for anyone's benefit. Taking the mere croakers as a class is a question if the influence will not be outweighed by that of other citizens of known business acumen and conservative tendencies who have committed themselves to the scheme after a careful consideration.

Some persons think they see in one clause of the contract an extension to an indefinite period of the five years option given the chief contractor. This is the section which says that the corporation, in other words the contractor, "shall employ the best modern methods and the utmost energy and ability it can command to induce people of the type desired to purchase homes in the region and shall use particular efforts to sell A. B.'s group A tracts. It shall continue these efforts during the five years hereafter or until, all of the contract land has been disposed of."

Now the group A tract is the half which the land owner reserves from the portion he has allotted. A previous clause expressly says that the option to the contractor upon the other half is for a period of five years. The idea is that the corporation shall not only during these five years, but thereafter, endeavor to find a buyer for the landowners' half. Self interest would of course impel the corporation to sell its own share but it pledges itself to also regard the interests of the person who is virtually its partner in the enterprise. If the scheme proves successful in its earlier stages additional tracts will doubtless from time to time be turned over to the corporation thus prolonging its activity beyond the original five year period.

Another wrong idea some have acquired is that the property owner who comes into the agreement cannot sell even the undesignated portion of his property unless the would-be buyer has the approval of the trustees. The provision in this respect merely is that he must give the corporation the first chance for a period of 30 days to buy the property for which he has made an offer. If the corporation fails to buy the owner may sell to whom he pleases. It is further pointed out that the provisions hostile to factories, hotels and trolley lines need not be taken too seriously. The town has already one large, manufacturing in the Gilbert & Bennett Co.'s wire mills at Georgetown and very useful institution is, giving employment to many hands and paying more than one fifth of the town's taxes. As for hotels the town now has one in the Bridge Inn. As for a trolley line, when the capital required to build it comes forward it will doubtless be built and built with the approval of a majority of the residents including the 500 newcomers who, if the plan works out as Mr. Tomlinson estimates, will locate here in the next five years.

Another assumed cause for shying rocks at the project has been its fancied antagonism to good roads. It is true that Mr. Tomlinson suggested that some of the back roads be left practically as they are because so much in keeping with the surroundings. Had he lived long in the town he would have known that fears for their reconstruction into first class highways were needless. The authorities expend little effort on these back highways, not nearly as much as those having occasion to use them would like. On the subject of highways the contract says only that the trustees "may improve some of the principal roads." So may any other private parties provided the improvements are carried out after plans approved by the local authorities. The selectmen are charged by statute with the care of roads and if they fail to perform this duty properly may be compelled to do so by the county commissioners. In addition there is the law for the building of improved roads by the town and State jointly. Redding has now to her credit something over $5,000 for this purpose and only awaits the action of the State commissioners to apply it to the use designated. If the present legislature makes a further "good roads" appropriation this town will doubtless put in a claim for its share. No one need fear that the land project will prove any obstacle to Redding's aspirations for improved highways.

The two essentials on which the maturing of the scheme hinges are first the pledging of the required amount of land and, second, the finding of a contractor. A month or six weeks should determine whether these conditions can be met.

One of the strong and much discussed novels of the past year was "To-gether," written by Robert Herrick of the Chicago University faculty. Prof. Herrick has recently been in Redding and during his stay looked about with a view of acquiring a place of residence here. He has arranged to place his son as a pupil in the Sanford school in the spring.

Commodore Lutgen has had surveys made and other preliminary work done towards the building of a dam for the flooding of about eight acres at the east of his new mansion on Sunset Hill. The formation of the ground is such that to secure the desired depth dikes would have to be built on the east and west sides of the tract to be flooded. Another possible obstacle is an old highway which has fallen into disuse except for the carting of wood. The location of the proposed pond is on the land bought by L. O. Peck from the Gorham estate.

The grand list of 1908, recently completed except for the review of the board of relief, totals $87,885, an increase from the previous year of $39,229. Virtually all of this increase represents new buildings. There will probably be no material reductions by the board of relief.

By a score of 22 to 21 the Ridge School of Litchfield county defeated the Sanford School at basket ball at the latter's gymnasium last Saturday. The Sanford's play the town team of Bethel at the same place Saturday afternoon of this week.

Ice cutting at the Pleasant Valley ponds began last Tuesday when E. M. Sanford put in Miss J. H. Sanford's supply. The ice was ten inches thick. Mrs. M. C. Dewey has vacated the George Sherman house in Pleasant Valley and gone to New York for the rest of the winter.

The reported sale by L. O. Peck of another large building site on Sunset Hill has no foundation in fact.

FIGHTING FLAMES.

(Special from United Press.)

New York, Jan. 21.—Firemen had a narrow escape from death or injury when flames broke out in a six story Greche street building this morning. The engine crew were on the fourth floor wrestling with one of the high pressure lines of hose when another stream from the system came through the window. It was backed by 200 pounds pressure and had it struck any of the men it would have killed them to pulp. They lay flat on the floor until one of their number managed to crawl to the window where he attracted the attention of one of the firemen who had the dangerous stream removed. The loss is estimated at about $20,000.

Officers of the town of Darien appeared before the R. commissioners Monday and objected to the proposed changes in their town. After a consultation with these representatives, the New York & Hartford Railroad Company withdrew its petition.

Alleged Horse Thief.

Giuseppe Agnelli, a vegetable peddler of Derby, was arrested at Stamford Sunday having stolen a horse and business wagon from Mrs. Rose Stronzo, in Derby. He claims that he sold her the horse some time since, and she failed to pay him.

Sheriff Kyle Resigns.

Henry F. Kyle, of Bethel, has resigned his office as sheriff. It was necessary for him to do this as the constitution of the state provides that no sheriff's deputy shall be a member of the general assembly. No deputy has yet been appointed in Bethel in Mr. Kyle's place.

May Soon Retire.

Thaddeus Bell, the venerable Town Clerk of Darien, has not been very well this winter, and, it is understood in Darien, is going to retire from office at the conclusion of his present term. He is also town treasurer, and for a number of years has been unanimously elected to both of those offices. For eight years he was selectman of Darien, he has served as postmaster and has also represented his town in the Legislature aside from his long career as town clerk and town treasurer.

Bad Leg Fractures.

John E. Wood, of Winnipauk, store keeper and railroad station agent of that place, fell on ice in front of his home Monday evening and broke both bones in his right leg in four different places.

Riverside House Robbed.

John F. McGinley was before the Greenwich Borough Court Monday on a charge of larceny. He was the result of suspicion entertained by a Harlem pawnbroker when two men, giving their names as Thomas McGinley and Adolph Gonzales, wanted to order a lot of jewelry and batteries. New York detectives were notified, and in McGinley's pocket was found a letter from his brother, which led to the theory that the latter was a confederate. John has been caretaker at the house of Mrs. Luke A. Lockwood in Riverside. The house is closed for the winter. She searched the house and found several articles missing. Of the things brought to the pawnbroker's she identified a gold watch and other articles of jewelry.

Apartment House Life

I know you say you can't help living in a flat, but you could help it if you weren't too lazy to live in the suburbs. There is no real home life possible without children—not one, but two or three—enough to keep the young mother too busy to make believe she belongs to the smart set. And apartments are either too small for that or the landlords won't tolerate children at all. And then there is no neighborhood life. It's a good thing to have gossiping neighbors. You're more apt to be careful of the way you live.

I always think of apartment house life as a sort of joke on socialism—a lot of strangers under one roof with just two mutual interests, a dumb waiter shaft and an artificial palm. And I'm bound to say that I think it is responsible for a heathen race with no children. Children mean sacrifice, and it's the sacrifice that make good men and women—Amelia E. Barr in New York World.

A Scoop.

John L. Toole, the famous English comedian and practical joker, and Mr. Justice Hawkins, who was afterward Lord Brampton, were great friends. They were at supper together one evening discussing the events of the day. The judge incidentally mentioned that he intended on the morrow giving the man he had been trying fifteen years because he deserved it.

As Toole was leaving he blandly inquired: "Oh, would you mind my calling at the newspaper offices and telling them about that fifteen years? It will be a tip for them—exclusive information, you know—and will do me no end of good with the press."

"Good gracious! No, sir!" exclaimed the judge, who took the precaution of accompanying Toole to his hotel and seeing him safely to bed.

Woman's Spur.

"The scent was excellent that frosty morning. She walked across the field, holding her riding skirt free of her patent leather boots and silver spurs."

"Spurs!" shouted the editor. "What ails you, man?"

"Spurs!" the puzzled author repeated. "Don't they wear spurs nowadays? I know they used to."

"Women never wear spurs unless they ride astride. They wear one spur—one only. What good would a second be, except to tear the clothes?"

"I see," said the other. "A natural error, wasn't it?"

"Only a natural error for an ignoramus. But the usual writer of sporting stories is an ignoramus. I rarely read a sporting story but I come across some error quite as blatant as this of yours."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The National is scientifically correct

First: Because the gas and the air are thoroughly mixed in the long goose neck, thus insuring perfect combustion.

Second: The gases are strongly heated before burning, thus increasing the luminosity.

"The gas and air being thoroughly heated before combustion greatly increases the luminosity."—Quotation from Prof. C. C. Newth, Royal College of Science, London.

The National gives by test 100 per cent. more light per cubic feet of gas than any verticle or upright lamp on the market and the Automatic Regulator admitting a uniform supply of gas insures a steady, perfect light.

LIGHTING EXPERTS

have for years been endeavoring to perfect a successful inverted gas light, well knowing that the old style verticle or upright burners must succumb to its superior merits.

The National Automatic Gas Light (Inverted) is the only perfect gas light, for the reason that it is made according to scientific principles.

The National regulates the gas you pay for—not the air, as is the case with all other gas lights—will give twice the light at half the cost of any verticle gas light, and five times the light at one-fifth the cost of electricity.

The hundreds of thousands of National Automatic Gas Lights now in operation throughout the world is a guarantee in itself of the satisfaction they are giving.

When we say the National Inverted will cut your lighting bills in two, we state facts. The net results of tests made by competent scientists are, that while the verticle or upright burners consume from 5 1/2 to 8 feet of gas per hour, the National Inverted consumes from 2 1/2 to 4 feet, depending upon the quality of the gas. Think what this saving of gas means. It is estimated that there are 90 billion cubic feet of gas used annually for lighting. At $1.00 per thousand this would mean 90 billion dollars.

The National gives as much light as five electric lights (by test) and at one-fifth the cost. It is electric in effect and like the electric does not smoke or discolor the ceiling, as the Automatic Regulator prevents excess of gas when the pressure is high.

If you cannot come in and buy one of these lights, send in your order — or telephone it, and we will put up one on trial.

REMEMBER WE GUARANTEE the "National" to be superior to any light you ever saw,—you take no risk—you can get your money back if dissatisfied, thousands have already been sold in this city—Ask Your Neighbor.
